received an estimated $140 million in economic and defense support assistance from Red China and the Soviet Union since 1957. The United States has aided Egypt to the tune of $1.13 billion — or more than half the total assistance to the Arab states of the Middle East.

All of this aid has been economic, and most has gone to Egypt through the Food for Peace program. Sale in Egypt of this food, mostly grains, has in turn generated local currency loans to the government of President Gamal Abdel Nasser and lesser amounts to Egyptian private industry.

As in many countries, these loans are repaid or credited to the account of the United States in local currencies and do not come back to Washington in the form of dollars.

Food shipments to Egypt ceased last June, but technical assistance valued at about $1.4 million continues. Also still under way is a $9.5-million program of feeding people, conducted through voluntary agencies working with the U.S. government.

The Volga is Europe's longest river and flows entirely within the Soviet Union.

Gets Bullet From His Heart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His surgeons plan to present William B. Spangler with a small memento of his operation — the bullet they removed from his heart.

Sprangler, 30, walked around with the lead slug in his heart for 15 years and didn't know it. He was hit in a hunting accident in 1952. Doctors thought it had bounced off his collarbone and out of his body.

Recurring chest pains brought Spangler back for an extensive examination. Doctors theorized the bullet had lodged in a vein and was pushed into the heart by the flow of blood.

Dr. Joseph John Verska and Dr. Louis Ludington operated for 3 1-2 hours Tuesday and removed the slug from the right ventricle.

Israel Wants to Know U.S. Plans

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel hopes President Johnson will tell him what the United States intends to do to open the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping if diplomatic efforts fail to end a threatened Egyptian blockade.

Johnson conferred in the Canadian woods Thursday with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson but the two leaders gave no hint they had reached any conclusion on how to achieve a peaceful solution in the Middle East.

The President returned later Thursday and Eban hoped to meet with him today.

Eban arrived here after talks with French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. He immediately went into conferences with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other State Department officials.

He said the purpose of his urgent visit to the principal Western capitals was "to explore what the governments intend to do to open the waterway."

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser announced Monday Israel vessels would be prevented from moving through the narrow Strait of Tiran, linking the Gulf of Aqaba and the Red Sea, and that ships of other nations would be denied passage if they were carrying strategic cargoes for Israel.

The United States and Britain have rejected Egypt's position that the southern route to the Israeli port of Elath uses Egyptian territorial waters. They asserted the route is an international waterway with which no nation has the right to interfere.

British Minister of State George Thomson concluded two days of conferences with Rusk and other officials and left Thursday night for London.

Thomson said he had held businesslike and constructive talks on what the United States, Britain and other maritime powers willing to cooperate should do about upholding the right of free passage through the Straits of Tiran.

He made clear the emphasis of both London and Washington at the moment is on finding a diplomatic way out of the crisis through the United Nations. He did not say what steps might be taken if diplomacy failed.

Nurse Homes Want Money Promised

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The board of the Arkansas Nursing Home Association will ask the state Welfare Board today to enforce immediately the provisions of Act 461 of 1967, its executive secretary said Thursday.

Executive Secretary Charles Stewart quoted the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare as saying that no provision in the measure would conflict with existing Social Security laws.

The act, passed over Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's veto, provides for increased monthly payments of $30 to welfare recipients in nursing homes.

Stewart said an increase in salaries covered by the federal minimum wage law had made it impossible for nursing homes to continue in operation without additional funds.

State Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock has offered the nursing homes a $20-a-month increase.

Figures She Had Packed Enough

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbara Chapman, 27, was at work as teller of a savings and loan office when an impatient bendit who was easy to please came in. She dug for money as the holdup demanded, and he finally cut in: "Oh, hell — that's enough."

Later Donald M. Stutsman, 39, surrendered to police and was held on suspicion of staging the holdup. Police said $415 was taken in the robbery Wednesday.

Experience Didn't Make Him Leery

By GEORGE MCARTHUR SAIGON (AP) — The Phantom jet fighter was careening wildly across the night sky over North Vietnam and the only thing left to do was reach beneath the seat and pull the handle that pilots call "the next-of-kin ring."

But after a night in the jungle and one of the most harrowing rescues of the Vietnam war, sandy-haired Dave Baldwin, 24, and only two years' out of the University of Indiana, is returning to combat and cheerfully intent on making a long career in the Air Force.

Flown to Saigon today, Baldwin telephoned his wife waiting in Dunkirk, Ind., with their 3-month-old son he has never seen. He told her he counts himself the luckiest of men.

Monday night Baldwin took off on his 57th combat mission over North Vietnam, in the second seat of a Phantom behind a pilot now missing in action.

"It was a little after dark and we were inbound on the target," he related in an interview.

"We had been picking up anti-aircraft fire all the way in. It was about as bad as I've ever seen it. I remember seeing it in front of us and looking out and seeing tracers everywhere. There was no place to go but to press on in."

"Then the aircraft commander said 'Dave, we've been hit.' The aircraft gave a little shudder but I didn't think we were hit bad."

"Then he said we were losing fuel. Then in another few seconds we began to lose our flight controls. It kept getting worse."

Baldwin and the pilot decided to risk a few more minutes in the bucking plane and try for the coast, where chances of rescue were infinitely better.

The Phantom veered and snapped wildly. Only the rudder was left and the pilot was fighting it manually, which requires about 150 pounds of pressure. The plane was losing altitude and making only slight headway.

They decided to turn on the after burner to try for more altitude, although its bright flash in the night sky would certainly draw more anti-aircraft fire.

"The anti-aircraft fire opened up again then," Baldwin said. "We lost a piece of rudder. Whether we were hit again I don't know. We were still losing altitude but fighting to make it across the one big ridge that was between us and the sea."

"It became apparent we weren't going to make it. The pilot said, 'Okay, Dave, this is as far as we can get. I'll try and get her as stable as possible.' Then he said, 'Okay, Dave' we've got to get out, and I reached for the ejection ring."

That was the last word Baldwin had from the pilot, whose identity is being withheld until his next of kin are notified.

"I pulled the ejection handle and the next thing I knew I was hanging from a tree," said

House Extends the Present Draft Law

By EDMOND LEBRETON WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to extend draft deferments of college undergraduates, after a rowdy late-night session where tempers flared and charges flew.

The controversial college deferment issue evoked the sharpest debate as the House voted 362 to 9 to extend for four years the existing military draft law, due to expire June 30.

The House passed version clashes with a Senate bill that would give the President broad authority to revise draft policy. Another difference is the House's insistence that Congress have the final say over whether a lottery-style selection system can be used as President Johnson desires.

The differences must be resolved in a Senate-House conference committee.

One member after another denounced as disgraceful Thursday night's proceedings, but the majority of those present — tired after a marathon session the night before — repeatedly voted to limit debate and shouted down amendments.

By the time Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., got the floor with his amendment to end student deferments, debate on the issue had been limited to one minute.

"This is the most disgraceful way to legislate on a bill of this importance," Pike told his colleagues.

He said projecting current Vietnam war statistics would leave 48,000 U.S. dead in four years — a normal college undergraduate period. "In time of war there is no justification in saying to one group of citizens, the wealthier, they can postpone their risk of being one of the 48,000 dead."

Nine Girls Missing From Baccalaureate

JUDA, Wis. (AP) — Stiff and solemn in blue gowns, the survivors of Juda High School's senior class lined up for the baccalaureate march.

The first 16 were boys. "You never can forget," said Donna Lehr, the class secretary. "It keeps coming back. Like Baccalaureate. We marched through the door and you see all the boys. Just boys. Then the girls in a small group."

"There's just you and six others."

"It's still hard to believe. It all seems so far-fetched."

The other nine girls in the senior class died in an inferno of burning fuel when a jet airliner crashed behind a motel in a suburb of New Orleans. They were visiting the city on their senior trip.

This is graduation week at Juda and strangely, at first, you see no evidence of grief.

"People aren't flying any black flags or anything," says

This Complaint May Ring True

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ben Rieff, R-S.D., has a complaint about the Capitol that may ring true with any parent who has taken children sightseeing in a large public building.

The situation is the familiar one in which the parent feels a tug on the arm and turns to meet a beseeching look from one of his youngsters.

Rieff said in testimony made public Tuesday there simply hasn't been sufficient provision for the needs of tourists.

He told Mario E. Campioli, assistant architect of the Capitol before a House Appropriations subcommittee that tourists "may have to resort to shrubbery on the Capitol grounds."

Paul Matzke, the postmaster "But it has taken its toll."

The scars of sorrow run deep among the 300 persons who inhabit this hilltop hamlet. They show themselves in small and subtle ways.

A mother stands in the dust near a barn and uses words like "is" and "does" as she talks of a daughter now dead nearly two months.

Even pets mourn. Joyce Kaderly's cat, the one with 23 toes, still prowls restlessly through the house at night.

Seventeen of the seniors sit in a classroom and talk to a stranger about themselves. Dan Leaver, the class valedictorian, says, "We were a close-knit group and this has made us closer. We are all friends and we try not to let it show where it hurts."

The seniors will graduate tonight.

The ceremony will be in the school gymnasium, where memorial services were held for the nine girls on a rainy Sunday in April.

There will be diplomas for the parents of each victim.

"It's not easy," says Mrs. Harry Smith, mother of one of the girls. "It's pretty tough, I tell you. We all go to these things and we cry."

"It's like a funeral," said senior Ron Gruenberg. "You may not think about it all the time and maybe you will tell a joke afterwards and laugh a bit, but it's still in your mind."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Dear Helen: My daughter tells me she is pregnant, but isn't sure who is the father, as she went to a party with her steady boy friend, had a fight with him, got drunk, and well, you know how those things go. Several boys might be to blame. She has dated two of them since.

She says she would insist that her boy friend marry her, but he might not believe her, knowing how she acted, I say he drove her to it, and he should pay. I blame myself for not equipping her with The Pill.

He has started going with another girl and we could make it rough for him. Once you said the boy should pay the bills as the girl has to suffer nine months, and also disgrace afterwards.

Just because there's a bare chance he might not be responsible this time, does that let this two-timer off scot-free? Please advise as my Liz is really in hot water. — SAD MOTHER

Dear S. M.: Liz cooked up this hot water . . . with your "motherly guidance" to help her. So ball out under your own steam. I hope counselors at the maternity home will teach her something you overlooked: honesty, dignity and morality. — H.

Dear Helen: I agree those coupons you get in the mail are a nuisance, but don't throw them away! Many organizations welcome them, and redeem them to help with charitable work. I send mine to the Mercer County S.P.A., P.O. Box 2095, Trenton, New Jersey, 08607. — L.J.

Dear Helen: I seldom exchange a coupon for an article in the store, but I avidly collect them because my Womans Auxiliary of our church sends coupons to the church-sponsored orphanage, which can use all kinds.

If women ask around they can always find a worthwhile spot for unused coupons. — M.G.

Dear Helen: I have been going with a man of 35 for two years. He says he wants to marry me and care for my two children, but he doesn't get a divorce. He's legally separated from his wife for over a year now, but says the reason he doesn't get the divorce is that he's waiting for her to find someone to marry, so his children will have a father.

He spends a lot of time with his "ex," and plans his vacation to match hers so he can carry her and the kids around to visit relatives.

I ask him "When?" and he says I'm nagging, just be patient. Does this sound hopeful to you, Helen? — NOT GETTING ANY YOUNGER

Dear NGAY: No! This man has the perfect insurance against a second marriage: a wife. And my I.G.A.P. (I'm guessing again perception says he plans to keep things that way. — H.

Dear Helen: I must protest your answer to P.B.F. whose child is tormented by a bully. No one should have to put up with, or move away from, the stinker down the block. She should compain every chance she gets, on her block, at church, in the PTA. Make people aware of the need for knowing what thier children are doing, and taking responsibility for it. It is time someone put the blame where it belongs: lazy, inadequate parents are a menace to society. — C.J.

Dear Helen: I sympathize with P.B.F. We have a stinker on our block. He beats up the kids, even carries a knife, of which his mother is aware. No one can talk to her. She slams down the phone if we try, calls the police if any of our kids fight back.

We can't afford to move but we eliminated much of the problem by erecting a tall, sturdy fence. Now our son stays in his yard and the bully stays out of it. — MRS. R.M.

Television and Radio

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Most listeners likely will agree that radio commercials featuring mindless jingles, strident voices or weird sounds are a nerve-jangling bore.

And that a few, made with taste and a light touch, can be charming.

But best of all, says one expert, are the ones with wit.

"Humorous commercials are stronger than dirt," quips Mel Blanc.

Mel is the man of many voices who did the talking for Bugs Bunny and Porky Pig in movie cartoons. Now he makes commercials—hopefully funny ones.

His competitors in Hollywood include satirist Stan Freberg, who kids his clients' prunes, chow mein, coffee, tea or airline service—and grosses $500,000 a year. A half-dozen other firms grind out plugs for everything from carbonated drinks and potato chips to a stomach remedy to take after overindulging.

Blanc, 58, squat and swarthy, with a glum face but cheerful disposition, is a onetime Portland, Ore., violinist, tuba player and radio-band leader.

In Hollywood 30 years ago he originated the voices of Bugs, Porky, Daffy Duck, Tweety and other Warner Bros. cartoon characters. On the Jack Benny radio show he played a parrot and a Mexican character and even supplied the sputtering sound of Benny's dying Maxwell.

Six years ago, Blanc's commercial venture—and Mel himself—nearly failed to get off the ground. On the very day that brochures hit ad agency mailboxes, announcing the formation of Mel Blanc Associates, a head-on collision accorndoned his car and broke, he says, "every bone in my body except my left arm."

Hospitalized two months in traction, Blanc went home in a body cast and there continued recording the voice of Barney Rubble in the "Flintstone" TV series. He now uses a cane only on stairs.

Revived 3½ years ago, Mel Blanc Associates has since doubled its business annually. With 22 writers, Mel says, he sells "entertainment, imagination

Singers Denies New Report

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ROME (AP) — Folk singer Joan Baez says she will not perform for either Communist troops in North Vietnam or American GIs in South Vietnam.

She denied Tuesday she had said she would perform before North Vietnamese soldiers. "That's absolutely false," she told newsmen.

"I would not go now to North Vietnam solely because it does not make, at this time, any political sense. But let me add one thing: I would not go to sing either for our boys in South Vietnam."

"I would love to sing and dance for them — but back home."

$7 Million to GI Children

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Novelist Pearl Buck has announced that she will give her estate and most of her earnings — more than $7 million — to the Pearl S. Buck Foundation to further the welfare of half-American children living in Asian countries.

The Nobel Prize-winning author, about to celebrate her 75th birthday, is preparing to make a trip to Korea to set up an opportunity center in Seoul. The center will educate some 3,000 children a year and help their mothers find jobs.

Miss Buck, who began the foundation in 1964, has 10 children — nine of them adopted American-Asians. Born of missionary parents, she grew up in China.

Her foundation, she said, is "a tool for the American people so they can assume responsibility for those innocent children, the children of our American sons."

ON THE HOPE SCENE THERE'S ALWAYS A BANK IN THE BACKGROUND

Whenever you see private enterprise at work you can be certain Citizens National Bank is on the job, too.

The reason: banks provide much of the money that businessmen need to get things done.

But there's a lot more to banking than just yes-or-no financing. There's the advice and counsel that Citizens National Bank can give the people we know and serve. There are the extra resources we can call upon from our correspondent bank. These are personal services and community services and service to merchants.

That's why banks like the Citizen National Bank contribute to our way of life and that's how the Citizens National Bank gets things done for Hope.

THE FRIENDLIEST BANK IN TOWN

Sen. Percy May Be a Candidate
By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Charles H. Percy says he might enter a presidential primary next year if that would help the candidate "I think best qualified" to win the Republican nomination for the White House.
"If the decision were today, I wouldn't go in at all," Percy said in an interview. "But it's conceivable. I wouldn't want to remove all possibility of my wanting to help someone."
Percy did not name a potential candidate as a man he might decide to assist. He said he expects to announce in advance of the Republican National Convention his choice for the nomination.
The Illinois senator has said in the past he considers New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the presidency. Rockefeller insists he is not and will not be a candidate and has advised GOP moderates to unite behind Michigan Gov. George Romney.
The hypothetical strategy Percy outlined, in explaining his refusal to rule out presidential primary races in 1968, could fit a Rockefeller effort.
Percy, serving his first term in the Senate, has said repeatedly he can't conceive of circumstances under which he would become a presidential candidate.
But he has declined to declare flatly he will not run in the New Hampshire presidential primary, the nation's first. His position is the same on primaries in Nebraska and Oregon, which list on the ballot all prominently mentioned candidates unless they submit sworn statements of noncandidacy for the nomination.
"Why close routes, other than saying that I'm not a candidate and don't intend to be a candidate," Percy said. "What if the man I think is best qualified decided he wouldn't enter one of the primaries, but he wanted me to go in because I was strong and then publicly throw my support to him?"
Those tactics would appear most applicable in the season's opener, in New Hampshire.

U.S., British Ask Others to Cooperate
WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States and Britain reportedly plan to seek cooperation of other maritime nations in support of their insistence that the Gulf of Aqaba be open to all shipping, including Israel's.
Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser said Monday the waterway would be closed to Israeli shipping and that ships carrying strategic cargoes to Israel also would be barred from the Gulf of Aqaba. There were reports Wednesday the Egyptians have mined the Gulf, Israel's supply lifeline to the East.
U.S. diplomatic efforts at present are aimed principally at trying to persuade Nasser to modify his position. This is also reported to be the major concern at the moment of the British and French governments.
All three fear war in the Middle East could result from an Israeli-Egyptian clash over the right of access to the southern Israeli port of Elath at the head of the gulf.
Minister of State George Thomson of Britain spent more than five hours Wednesday talking with Secretary of State

Dean Rusk, Undersecretary Eugene V. Rostow and other top officials on moves to deal with the Egyptian action and what Thomson afterward called "the threatening situation in the Middle East".
"What I have been seeking to do today," Thomson said, "was to discuss with the American government practical ways and means of insuring that the right of international passage is properly preserved."
Other informants said the two governments agreed the widest possible support should be sought from other nations for the principle that the Gulf of Aqaba is an international waterway which Egypt has no right to blockade.
American officials are known to feel the widespread endorsement of this principle might affect Nasser's decision and reinforce the stand which the United States and some other governments have taken calling for U.N. Security Council action in the situation.
It was the withdrawal of U.N. forces from Israeli-Egyptian border areas at Nasser's request last week which cleared the way for Egyptian forces to occupy vantage points from which they can control the narrow strait leading from the Red Sea into the gulf.

Self-Consciousness May Increase Perspiration

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am a girl, 19, with excessive underarm perspiration. I have tried various deodorants and hexachlorophene soaps but nothing seems to help. What do you recommend?

A—Excessive sweating in any area is aggravated by environmental heat, exertion, obesity, heavy clothing, eating spicy foods and drinking coffee or alcohol. Heredity may also be a factor. Self-consciousness about the problem increases nervous tension and this too, can cause overactivity of the sweat glands. When the usual preparations fail it is often because they are not used regularly every day. If this is not the reason for the failure, X-ray treatment, cutting the sympathetic nerve roots that supply the axillary sweat glands or even removing some of the axillary skin may be tried. These, however, are desperation measures and most victims are not ready to go that far.

this classification but surely rice would qualify. Usually a diet that prohibits rice and potatoes does so because they have a high starch content. This would apply equally to corn, peas, beans and lentils.

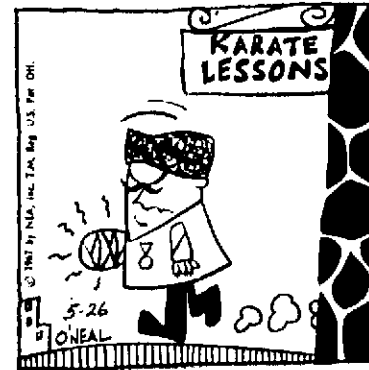

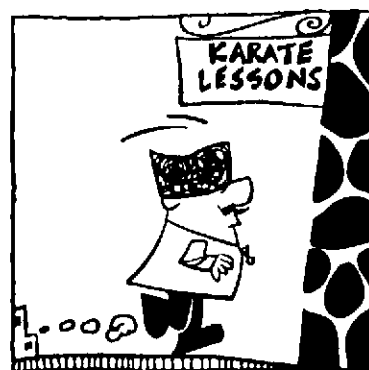

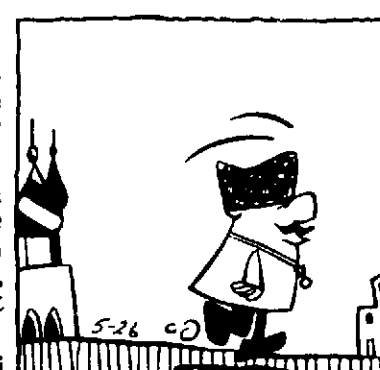

Q—What sort of test is used to diagnose a potassium deficiency in the blood? Sixteen years ago I took large doses of cortisone for about four months. After this length of time could I still be deficient in potassium?

A—The potassium level in the blood can be determined by a chemical test. A deficiency of potassium can be corrected in a few days with a high potassium diet or potassium salts. It would not persist.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Finals in High School Tournament

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Greene County Tech will meet Fort Smith St. Anne's in the finals of the state High School Baseball Tournament here today.

Tech defeated Tyronza 6-3 in semi-final play Thursday, and St. Anne's clobbered Joe T. Robinson 10-1.

An error, a double by Ronnie Balceval and a wild pitch gave Tech a three-run lead in the first inning. It led the game with two tallies in the fourth and one in the fifth. Tyronza picked up its first run on a dropped fly ball and a wild pitch in the third inning, and scored twice more in the fifth.

Danny Ford held Tyronza to three hits and struck out eight for Greene County. Jerry Williams was the loser.

Joe T. gave away three runs on a single error in the second inning, and St. Anne's cashed in four more errors for five runs.

Carl Lindquist was the winning pitcher and Gary Bancelled the loser. Tyronza 001 020 0-3 3 3 3

TOM TIEDE IN VIETNAM

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BONG SON, Vietnam—(NEA)—From the first day the two soldiers met, Pfc. Bud Knaus championed the clumsy cause of the other man.

It was an odd friendship. But a warm one, too.

Knaus, 22, a solidly built youngster from someplace called Cheektowaga, N.Y., was clearly the able protector. Strong-willed and intelligent, he made a hell of a soldier and a hell of a pal.

The other man, though, was something else. A good enough fellow, of course, but a definite dud. He would try almost anything and fail as often. If he said black, it was white. If he said up, it was down.

Indeed, it was a strange, if sincere, mating. Soldiers here always referred to it as a marriage of the helpful and the helpless.

"No, not that way," Knaus would advise patiently.

"How then?" the other man would ask.

"Move it counterclockwise."

"Huh?"

"Up and to the left."

"Oh, I gotcha, Bud. Thanks."

That's how it was with them from the beginning. And that's how it was the other night when all of the horrible shooting started.

The men were with an artillery battery from the First Air Cavalry at the time. The unit was emplaced on high muddy ground. It was quiet. Most everyone was bedded down for the night.

It was a chilly evening.

what soldier. He turned white and sucked himself alongside a circle of sandbags. Knaus urged him to open fire but, if he did at all, it was not observable.

By then the battle was at full fury. U.S. artillery pieces opened up into the onrushing enemy with devastating effect, and loose-jointed GIs scrambled into the night to pick off whom they could.

Despite the resistance, the enemy continued the charge. Small bunches of them crawled over the parapets and shot their weapons at whatever moved below or whatever was already dead.

Finally, the guerrilla waves grew so large that the artillerymen had to empty the flanking bunkers and rally into a tighter defense.

"Get out of the bunker."

Knaus, of course, started to comply. He hopped to the top of the bunker and there stopped. He looked back for the other man and saw him still clinging frantically to the edge of the sandbags.

Then he dropped to the other man's side.

The fight flared for hours afterward. Give and take. Dead man for dead man. Wound for wound. Each side suffering mightily. But at length the guerrillas retreated. And the guns began to cool.

In the end, the surviving GIs walked wearily through the desolation, surveying the damage. When they reached the final bunker they found two American bodies both shot through the head.

It wasn't so bad for them really.

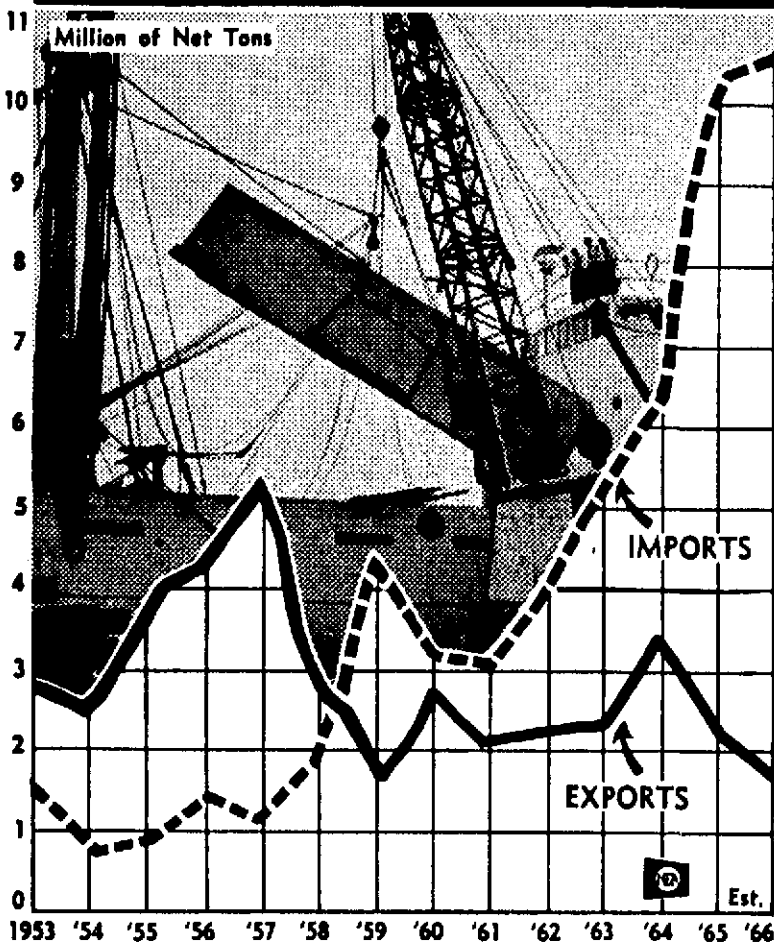

It could have been worse. They might have died apart.

Wrestler to Boxer

Former light heavyweight champion Paul Berlenbach won the AAU light heavyweight wrestling title before becoming a boxer.

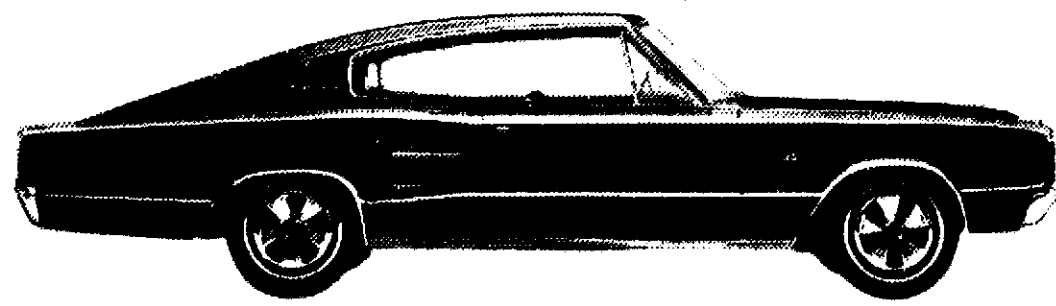

Long the world's largest steel producer, the United States is now also the largest importer. Imports of the key metal, rising rapidly over the past decade, reached a record high of 11 million tons in 1966. During the same period, exports dropped from more than five million tons to less than two million. The U.S. steel industry is now urging Congress to curb imports with a temporary levy on foreign steel and pig iron.

Puzzling World of Animals

Had a court-martial in my backyard yesterday but I still don't know how it came out. Beyond the backyard is the "back 40" where I keep some tame mallards and wild geese, and yesterday I found a mallard hen that had been mauled to death but not eaten. The evidence pointed to some well-fed dog that had carried her around in his mouth just for the feel of it. I knew that my female basset had gotten into the "back 40" once before, and night before last she showed the trick to my male boxer. I had slammed both of them in the small enclosure with the doghouse while I hunted for the hole under the main fence. But now there was this discovery of a dead duck.

I got the corpus delicti and laid it out before the two suspects. They reacted it in the best Who Dunit manner . . . sniffed with boredom, yawned prodigiously. If dogs could talk they were telling me they were taking the Fifth Amendment - both of them.

Okay, so they stay in jail until I find that hole under the fence and close it.

Animals have their problems in Mississippi, too. Editor Henry Harris writes in his column "Pencil Shavings" in the West Point Daily Times Leader:

Last Fall, some of the greenery in the sun-parlor (planted in big wooden tubs) looked a little sick. So, they were placed outside for a good dose of sunshine. And now we have small pecan trees coming up inside the tubs (which have long since been back inside the house), and we can well imagine that several neighborhood squirrels are trying to decide where to dig for those hidden nuts.

Cosmetology Board Asked to Resign

By PETE YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The six members of the state Cosmetology Board said Thursday they didn't know how to react to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's request for their resignations.

Rockefeller asked for the resignations Thursday as a possible method of circumventing a 1967 act that could put the board out of business during the next two years.

A recent attorney general's ruling on the act said that unless the present board members were confirmed by the Senate, the Board could not receive state appropriations. None have been confirmed.

Normally, new appointees would not have to be confirmed until the 1967 General Assembly. The Senate confirmation clause was attached to the Board's appropriation bill during the final rush days of the 1967 General Assembly by Sen. Guy (Mutt) Jones of Conway. Jones wife serves on the Boards.

Mrs. Jones said she definitely would not resign.

"I see no reason to," she said. "We wouldn't be in this situation if Rockefeller had left us alone."

Mrs. Jones said that it was her understanding that Rockefeller had asked the board to fire an inspector, Mrs. Patty Toney of Crossett, and had promised to hire a board member in her place. Mrs. Toney subsequently was fired, but it was not reflected in the minutes of the meeting at which the action was taken she said.

Mrs. Jones said there was illness in her family at the time of that meeting and that she hadn't attended.

"But that's what started all this," she said.

Jones and Sen. Richard Earl Griffin of Crossett made the same charges when the Senate was voting on Jones' amendment to the board's appropriation bill. They said the governor had promised board positions to some of the women who supported him in his race against Democrat Jim Johnson in the 1966 General Election, and that he was trying to create a piece for them.

Company of GIs Cut Up by Enemy

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — A company of about 150 American soldiers was badly cut up today fighting off an ambush by North Vietnamese soldiers wearing flashy red berets and Communist suicide snipers lashed in trees.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said five of the American troops were killed and 46 wounded, but a report from the battlefield said about half of the company was killed or wounded. The U.S. Command said 71 North Vietnamese were killed.

As the 4th Division infantrymen fought for three hours in the thick jungle of the central highlands, U.S. Marines battled for a hill in the southern part of the demilitarized zone. Other action was reported in the muddy Mekong Delta and near Saigon, where three helicopters were shot down and eight more riddled by bullets while evacuating a South Vietnamese patrol.

AP Correspondent John Wheeler reported from the central highlands that the 4th Division company was hit while searching the jungle for two Red regiments. The company commander was cut down in the first volley of coordinated sniper and mortar fire.

The Communists attacked a few hours after daybreak in an area where the 4th Division men have fought six stiff fights in the past eight days. The battlefield was just over three miles from the Cambodian border on the western border of Pleiku Province.

One assault was made by about 50 North Vietnamese wearing camouflaged uniforms and red berets. Wheeler, who was with the company that was hit, said the Reds were beaten off by defenses hastily organized by the company's noncoms when most of the officers were shot down.

The thick double-canopy jungle made it difficult initially to bring in accurate supporting air and artillery fire. The Communist snipers were lashed high in the dense foliage and their fire caused many of the American casualties.

During the battle, one platoon from a nearby company managed to fight its way through to join the embattled company. Holding their ground determinedly, the Americans formed a perimeter and found what cover they could against the raking fire of Red mortars and the quick-firing AK47 sub-machine guns carried by the North Vietnamese troops.

Each time the North Vietnamese tried a stand-up charge through the jungle, they were thrown back.

Fighting broke off when artillery, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships laid a blanket of fire to pin down the North Vietnamese while the Americans pulled back.

Snow Sweeps Sections of New England

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy rain, snow and gale winds swept wide areas in New England today as a damaging late spring storm caused flooding from Cape Cod, Mass., to Portland, Maine.

Gale warnings were posted along coastal areas of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

High tides, swept by the gusty winds, were 2 1/2 to 3 feet above normal from Cape Cod to Portland. Communities along the coast reported streets flooded up to 3 feet. Some families were evacuated. There were power failures in many communities, including several sections of Boston.

The high winds toppled utility poles, uprooted trees and smashed windows.

The storms caused extensive damage to crops. Damage was estimated at $1 million to poles and nets used to protect the Connecticut River valley tobacco crop. The weight of the snow collapsed the equipment, mostly in the northern valley areas.

Rep. Mills Suggests Cold-eyed Look at U.S. Taxing, Spending

By EDMOND LeBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Its No. 1 tax authority says Congress needs a commission of outsiders to take a cold-eyed look at government spending and taxing.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee says such a panel should look at current programs and lay the foundation for rational policy. Mills is on record as favoring a long-range policy of tax reduction.

"We can't have a reasonable tax policy apart from a reasonable spending policy," Mills told an interviewer. "We can't finance through taxes the programs now in existence as they may grow. Such taxes would throw the economy into a tailspin."

"But we lose our options for using tax policy to foster long-term growth because we simply don't know which programs are worth the most and which the least in terms of benefits related to costs."

"The best way to economize is not to cut $10 million from this activity or $20 million from that simply because you have the opportunity to do it. It might be much better to eliminate altogether the programs that are providing the least in relation to their cost."

Mills has mentioned in two recent speeches the possibility of a presidential commission to advise Congress on government spending.

He spelled out his ideas in more detail in the interview and said he intends to discuss them further in the House when it takes up a proposed increase in the national debt limit in about two weeks.

Mills emphasized the study he proposes should not be aimed particularly at new government undertakings.

"We have many programs on the statute books that are 50 years old, many that are 30 years old," he said. "Who knows but that some of these may have long outlived their usefulness? We have a different economy in many ways a different society, from what existed."

Broilermen Start Drive for Members

The Hempstead County Farm Bureau broiler grower committee is busy preparing for the 1967 Arkansas Broiler Grower Service membership campaign.

According to the chairman, Ralph Montgomery, the campaign will begin with a county-wide meeting Monday night, 8:00 o'clock, May 29th, at the County Courthouse in the large courtroom. Another meeting is planned for the Patmos area for Tuesday night, 8:00 o'clock May 30 at the school.

Immediately following these meetings the volunteer Farm Bureau workers will begin canvassing to contact every eligible broiler grower. In 1966, its first year of operation, the Broiler Grower Service enrolled producers in 30 counties, representing 33 per cent of the eligible broiler house capacity. In Hempstead County 790,500 house capacity was written up last year.

The program objectives, simply stated, is designed to do everything possible, feasible, and ethical to help improve the broiler grower's position in economic and non-economic areas. Mr. Montgomery said "It is our belief that any improvement of the grower's standing ultimately will help improve the entire U.S. Broiler industry."

New growers are needed to help provide the necessary strength that can be achieved only through large numbers and a unified effort. Farm Bureau, through its affiliated marketing associations, is the only national organization which has a program developed by broiler growers for the benefit of broiler growers. This gives opportunity to be heard locally, throughout your state, and nationally. See your Farm Bureau President, Lester Kent, or Ralph Montgomery, and his committee for membership today.

when they were started. "We need to know more about duplicating programs intended to help the same people. Training programs are an example - there is hardly a committee in Congress that has not authorized a training program. There may be great opportunities for consolidation, if we could get across the department lines."

Mills said he envisions a commission similar to those on government organization headed by former President Herbert Hoover, many of whose recommendations were enacted.

LBJ Might Call Meet of Big Four

OTTAWA (AP) — President Johnson told Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson he may propose a Big Four summit conference if the United Nations fails to cool off the Middle East crisis, a Canadian government informant said today.

The informant said Johnson broached the idea to the Canadian leader during their luncheon conference Thursday at Pearson's lakeside summer residence 20 miles from Ottawa.

Both leaders expressed hope, the informant said, that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant would have some solution as a result of his meeting in Cairo this week with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Johnson was reported to have said, however, that if Thant's efforts failed and if the 15-nation Security Council is unable to agree on measures to ease the crisis, Johnson would favor meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Pearson agreed that four-power talks at the top level would be desirable if U.N. efforts broke down, the informant said, but he told the President that Canada would prefer a U.N. settlement involving the establishment of a border patrol along the Egyptian-Israeli frontier.

Thant pulled the U.N. Middle East peace force out of the area last week in response to demands by Nasser.

Johnson and Pearson held a news conference just before the President returned to Washington.

Arabs Continue Threat of War, Thant Brings UN His Peace Report

Arabs Have Received $2 Billion in U.S. Aid Since World War

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has sent more than $2 billion in aid since World War II to five Arab nations involved in the current Middle East crisis with neighboring Israel.

That's nearly twice the dollar value of all forms of U.S. government aid to Israel.

But unlike the Arab nations, Israel has in the United States private sources of aid and financing that have provided the Jewish homeland funds at least equaling the total of U.S. government help to Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Yemen and the United Arab Republic.

Military aid of $227.8 million included in the total for Israel's Arab neighbors has gone almost entirely to Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Most of Jordan's $66 million has been outright grants of money and excess American military equipment. But government records show substantial portions of the $517.2 million in economic aid for Jordan has gone into construction of roads and facilities planned to bolster the kingdom's defense position.

A decade ago the United States took over from Britain most of the burden of supporting Jordan. American support has continued, a handbook of the Agency for International Development states, because of "the danger that Jordan's dismemberment might produce violence throughout the area."

Military aid for Jordan compares with $27.6 million for Israel, all in credit assistance to help Israel buy arms.

Saudi Arabia has received $161.7 million in military assistance against $47.4 of economic aid. But 60 per cent of the total has been in the form of loans or credits.

Only $100,000 of the $73.3 million aid total for Syria has been for military purposes and more than one-half has been in loans. All of the $41.8 million for Yemen has been outright gifts, with less than $50,000 allotted for military aid. U.S. aid to Yemen ended this spring, after the state arrested two American officials, who later were released on bail and then left the country.

Ashdown GI Killed in War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Pfc. Gerald L. Aylor of Ashdown was among 50 men listed Thursday by the Defense Department as having been killed in action in the Vietnam war.
